During the week that Bonneville International Corp. and its affiliated stations, KSL TV and KSL Radio, held an open house in their new quarters at the Triad Center in Salt Lake City, NSUP national officers presented BIC president, Arch L. Madsen, his life membership certificate. It's number 1160, which coincides with KSL Radio's location on the dial.

Also present at the occasion was Mrs. Philo T. Farnsworth, widow of the inventor of television who was giving SUP member Madsen replicas of the original tubes developed by Farnsworth for television transmission.

An SUP life membership certificate was given Mrs. Farnsworth to honor her husband posthumously for the great contributions to science and world progress made by him.

Encampment, 7 Monuments Highlight Eventful Term

As time draws near to the end of my term as your President, it's time to reflect on the "highs" and "lows" of our programs. Where did we have our greatest success and where was there room for improvement? Let's analyze our past achievements.

Encampment

Our thanks go to the East Mill Creek and Mountain Valley Chapters, who co-sponsored the very successful Encampment at Heber City. Many hours of dedicated service went into this annual event including a first-time golf tournament. Chairman Wallace Bates and his committee were commended on the events of this outstanding Encampment. Elda Bates (his wife) also received generous applause as the Women's Committee Chairman.

Trails and Landmarks

Seven chapters have replaced or completely built seven markers or monuments, as follows:

1. Settlement Canyon Chapter replaced marker on Lookout Mountain on Pony Express Trail.

2. Murray Chapter placed a monument on Travelers Rest in Murray commemorating the smelting industry.

3. Salt Lake City Chapter placed a monument at SUP Headquarters Building commemorating Parley P. Pratt's Toll Road, called the "Golden Road."

4. Ogden Pioneer Chapter placed a marker on North Ogden Canyon Summit commemorating five Indian trails used by Pioneer settlers and early explorers.

5. Box Elder Chapter placed a monument at the Brigham City Cemetery at the grave site of Lorenzo Snow, LDS Church President.

6. South Davis Chapter placed a plaque and rebuilt the monument at Big Mountain on the Mormon Pioneer Trail.

7. Holladay and Potomac Chapters placed a monument at Camp Grant, near Mountain Dell Reservoir, on the Mormon Trail.

Several other chapters have plans, or are in the process of erecting monuments and plaques at other Pioneer sites which could be completed before year-end.

Life Memberships

We now have 1139 LIFE MEMBERS — this is an increase of 155 since the 1983 Encampment.

Glen S. Greenwood

Annual Memberships

During the 1984 year there was a nominal increase in annual memberships.

By-Laws Updated

The SUP Articles of Incorporation and By-Laws have been updated under the direction of K. Grant Hale, former National President.

Name Memorializations

So far this year, the Name Memorialization program has made some progress with 187 names having been memorialized.

We encourage chapter and member participation during the ensuing year.

It has been a great pleasure to serve as your President during 1984. I wish to thank each and everyone of you for your cooperation in the many projects of the Sons of Utah Pioneers.

Sincerely,
Glen L. Greenwood

1985 President Hopes To Build On Past SUP Gains

by Dale Roe

A Pioneer heritage, a family of 6 children and 20 grandchildren, extensive experience in business, church and community, and service in the U.S. Air Force have been brought together in the 1985 President of the National Society Sons of Utah Pioneers.

From this "mountain of experience" Verl L. Petersen views past history and successes of the Sons of Utah Pioneers and looks to ways to build on that past for this coming year. His goals are to: Continue to honor our Pioneer heritage through active preparation in the National Sons of Utah Pioneers; promote growth in membership and chapters; strive for continued memorialization of our pioneers.

Incoming President Verl supports and urges other members to continue to support other projects and activities which will help accomplish our goals.

"We want to finish the basement in our National Building to make our facilities more beautiful and more useful," he said.

"In realizing these goals, we want to all work harmoniously together and have a good time," he added.

Sons of Utah Pioneers

A sketch of his accomplishments includes: Sons of Utah Pioneers: Life Member; President of Box Elder Chapter; National Vice President four years during transfer of Pioneer Village to Lagoon and search and acquisition of the site for the new building; national director for one year; directed operation of the Corinne Railroad Museum a year prior to its transfer; program chairman for Box Elder Chapter for five years; co-chairman of the National SUP encampment at Logan, 1978; attended five national encampments and SUP Seminar in Cedar City; conducted 1984 new officers' seminars in Salt Lake City and in Mesa, Arizona.

sioned by Brigham Young to build wagons to transport members of the Church across the plains. Other grandparents were converts in Norway and came to Utah prior to the turn of the century.

Verl's family moved to Brigham City in 1933. He is a graduate of Box Elder High School, attended Weber State College and Washington State College and is a graduate of the California College of Mortuary Science. He is married to LaRaine Wold of Brigham City.

He was a pilot in World War II, retiring as a Captain in the Air Force.

An active member of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, he has served as ward clerk, a member of two bishoprics over a period of 10 years, in MIA and scouting, president of the Sunday School, in a High Priests' presidency, and in a stake mission.

Martha Jane Coray - Teacher, Writer: Recorder Joseph Smith's Speeches

by Jeffery Ogden Johnson
City Creek Chapter

When Martha Jane Knowlton Coray died in 1881, the Salt Lake Herald said of her:

She was possessed of indomitable energy, and besides being well read and cultured, and possessing in all eminent degree many womanly traits, ...her mind was clear and comprehensive, and she employed it to good advantage.

Everything we know about her life indicates she was indeed a woman who did her own thinking, made her own decisions, and set her own high standards of excellence.

Like many of the early Mormons, Martha Jane had deep roots in New England—although her parents joined the westward movement. They settled first in Pennsylvania, then moved to Boone County, Kentucky, where Martha Jane was born on June 3, 1822, the daughter of Sidney Algernon and Harriet Burnham Knowlton. While she was still a child, the family moved to Ohio.

Path Crosses with Mormons

By 1838, the family had moved again, this time to Hancock County, Illinois. That same winter, the Mormons were being driven out of Missouri. Their paths crossed, and the future changed for the entire Knowlton family. Mormon refugees from Missouri were settling Hancock County's struggling little community of Commerce.

George A. Smith, a member of the Quorum of the Twelve, was among these settlers. Martha Jane, then seventeen, heard him preach. She said he set forth the principles of the gospel in such a plain and unmistakable manner as to convert her to the principles of Mormonism.

She was the first member of her family to be baptized—through a hole cut in the January ice of 1840. By 1845, the Bear Creek Branch records also listed her parents and five of her brothers and sisters as members. (The last two members of the family were not yet eight.)

Martha Jane Coray

Visits to Nauvoo

We can assume that the family frequently visited Nauvoo, then prospering under the influx of Mormon emigrants. They would have had numerous occasions to listen to Joseph Smith's sermons, attend conferences and other public meetings, and visit their fellow members of the Church. It was in Nauvoo that Martha Jane met Howard Coray, Joseph Smith's secretary. They were married on February 6, 1841, at her parents' home in Bear Creek by Robert H. Thompson, the Church recorder. The young couple lived in the Thompson home in Nauvoo until they could find a home of their own.

In October 1840, Howard opened a school in the Prophet's office. In the spring of 1841, he transferred his operations to a "large room" that Thompson had built on his house; and he expanded the school with the help of Martha Jane. During the next few years, Howard was gone frequently from Nauvoo on missions and business; and Martha Jane kept the school alone. This began her life-long teaching career.

Martha Jane had a large, healthy family of thirteen children, only one of whom died in infancy. Two of the children—Howard and Martha Jane—were born in Nauvoo.

Records Prophet's Speeches

Two other important events occurred in Nauvoo. Martha Jane began recording speeches of Joseph Smith, which she carefully preserved. George A. Smith said she had taken more pains to preserve the sayings of the Prophet and had accomplished more in that direction than any other woman in the Church. Her daughter, Martha Jane Coray Lewis, later noted that Wilford Woodruff "consulted her notes when he was Church Historian, for items not to be obtained elsewhere."

It may have been as a result of her interest in preserving these sermons that she became involved in Lucy Mack Smith's project of writing the story of her son, Joseph Smith. Lucy Mack Smith first approached Martha Jane with the project, and she had to give up teaching school to undertake it. The project soon assumed such proportions that Howard was requested to drop the school and help her. After consulting Brigham Young, Howard and Martha Jane labored together until the work was finished, near the close of 1845.

The family arrived in the Salt Lake Valley in the Fall of 1850. Howard secured employment as a clerk in the general tithing office at the excellent salary of $1,000 a year. He built a home for less than $800.

Buys Tooele Farm

In September 1854, Howard sold his house to Apostle Orson Hyde and moved to Tooele, where he bought a farm. The first year was reasonably successful, but the harsh alkaline soil made farming increasingly impractical.

The family moved to Provo in 1857 in hopes of finding prosperity and became life-long residents of that town; but times were no easier. A biography of Martha Jane, written by her granddaughters, described their diet for that year as sego lilies, watercress, wild onions, rabbits, and whatever else they could find.

Martha Jane made tallow candles for the children to sell and extracted syrup from sugar beets to trade for a little bread. Once she gleaned grain from a kindly neighbor's field, had it ground into "course bran," and made it into bread. The children's memories of those early years in Provo are of destitution and hunger,

Monument Dedicated at Site of Early Utah Indian Trials

by E. Kay Kirkham

An impressive dedication program for a handsome new Indian Trails Monument took place at the summit of the North Ogden Canyon on July 21, 1984. About one hundred persons were present to see the following program carried out under ideal weather conditions.

The ceremonies began with the flag presentation by the Mount Ogden District Boy Scouts of America and the invocation as offered by Henry Matis, Board Member of Lake Bonneville Council, Boy Scouts of America and member of the Ogden Chapter of SUP.

The plaques and text of the impressive monument were explained by William W. Terry and a response was made by Mae Timbimboo Parry, historian for the Northwest Shoshone Tribe of Indians. This was followed by a response from David Morby of the Western Long Rifle Association and a black powder salute from several of the association members. Mr. Morby's short talk and explanation of the dress of his associates held the interest of the crowd.

A second response was made by Mr. Burns Wangsgard, Mayor of Huntsville and President of the Jefferson Hunt Chapter of the Sons of Utah Pioneers.

A dedicatory prayer was offered by Bishop Frank Timbimboo of Brigham City, a member of the Northwest Shoshone Tribe. Thereafter the presentation of the monument was made by William H. Shurtliff, president of the Ogden Chapter, Sons of Utah Pioneers. A response to the presentation was made by the chairman of the Weber County Commissioners, Robert Hunter.

impressive ceremonies marked the completion of this handsome monument to Indian Trials in Utah, one of several dedicated this summer by SUP chapters.

Three Groups Listed

Three different and distinct types of cultures utilized the trails commemorated with this event. They were (1) the Northwest Shoshone Indians, who occupied this area; (2) next came the mountain men into the region of the Indians: the trappers, the explorers, the pathfinders, the adventurers; (3) permanent settlers followed soon after the great majority of mountain men had vanished, "The pioneers, unlike the other white men, built homes, founded communities which later became cities. This activity restricted the area in which the Indians could move about and live. The Indians' tribal structure vanished. Some of the individuals, members of the Northwest Shoshone Tribe remained in the area and have brought into the culture of those who settled in their region valuable lessons which the white men should learn and appreciate," according to the monument plaque.

Acknowledgements for volunteer labor and support which made the monument possible include: US Forest Service for permission to erect the monument; Keith Wilcox for the architectural design; excavations and footings by Rasmussen Sprinkler Co., Jay Wadman and Blaine Wade for the actual construction of the monument, rocks were gathered by the Boys Scouts of America; rock work by Wallace Pingree and site grading by Porter Gooch. The monument committee was Ferrel

Carter, chairman, Henry Matis, Gilbert Wallace, Vince Quan and William W. Terry.

Mountain Valley and East Millcreek Host Memorable '84 Encampment

From golfing at Wasatch State Park, through half a dozen tours and meal-time socializing, business meetings and special programs, the 1984 Encampment of the National Society Sons of Utah Pioneers ended with the President's Installation Banquet at the Wasatch High School in Heber City. From Thursday morning, September 5 through Saturday's dinner, September 8, the four days were over-flowing with memorable activities, organized and orchestrated by the Mountain Valley and East Mill Creek Chapters of the S.U.P.

Thanks to the East Mill Creek "Courier" here's some detail about the 1984 encampment in Heber City:

Thursday, September 6

Thursday, after a hearty breakfast, the tours started at 9:00 a.m. The tour to Mirror Lake had a full bus load and an extra car was needed for the overflow. Other tours included: Snow Bird, Cascade Springs, Mirror Lake, Park City and Salt Lake City. The Heber Creeper was a popular tour.

At the 6:00 p.m. dinner, it was announced that there were 50 chapters in the National Society S.U.P., and that in two weeks a chapter would be organized in Af-ton, Wyoming, to bring the count to 51.

An "Evening of Special Entertainment" was offered after dinner. Numbers were offered by the East Mill Creek chorus, and by the Grand Tappers, a group of tap-dancing grandmothers (all over 65) — and were they good!

An interesting account of the early days of Heber City was a feature of the evening.

Friday, September 7

After breakfast, tours continued through the day. At 6:00 p.m. a delicious dinner of barbequed ribs was served. After dinner, a dance was held on a spring floor for a "good crowd."

Joe Fisher enlivened the dinner, as master of ceremonies, with his wit and a good script.

Saturday, September 8

The National Board Meeting opened the day, and a hearty breakfast at 6:30 a.m. was served for S.U.P. members. President Glen Greenwood presided and welcomed board members, then reviewed the financial report. Grant Hale presented articles and by-laws revisions. Orson Wright reported progress on the organization's history book. President-elect Verl Peterson outlined his objectives and hopes for 1985 for S.U.P. and expressed appreciation for achievements of the past years by officers and members of committees.

After discussion on a motion by Bert Carter, it was unanimously passed that a monthly "memo" be mailed to Vice Presidents and Chapter Presidents to help them in their efforts both national and local.

The annual member's business meeting and elections opened at 9:00 a.m. Articles of Incorporation and By-laws were reviewed and passed. Voting was completed in the regional meetings for National Vice President and for President-Elect.

Candidates for Vice President spoke in the regional meetings and the candidates for President-Elect spoke in the general meeting. The results of vice president elections were announced in the regional sessions, but the ballot-count was not completed and announcement made of results in the president-elect vote until the evening meeting.

Other agenda items in the general meeting:

Pledge of Allegiance and Presentation of Colors: Wes Reese of the Mormon Battalion. Opening song conducted by Music Committee Chairman Phil Robbins with Dr. Ray Barton as accompanist. Invocation: Vice President Joseph Hellewell.

The new National Society Flag, designed and made by Jean Partridge, was presented by President Glen Greenwood.

Life Membership Report by Trustee and Chairman Adolph Johnson. Name Memorialization by Chairman Lynn Murdock. Trails and Landmarks, Chairman Kenneth P. Rasmussen. Executive Secretary Report by John J. Nielsen. Fiftieth Anniversary Book: Past National President and Chairman Dr. Orson Wright. Histories: National Historian, Kay Kirkham.

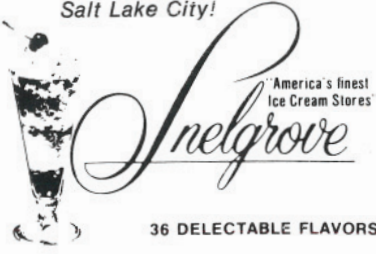

Program For Ladies

For the ladies, a special program was held at the Middle School. Saturday, 9:00 a.m. The Allegro Chorus presented a half-hour program. Thelma Smurthwaite gave a talk. A talk was also given on the history of Heber City, after which Mrs. Florence Hansen gave a talk and showed her slides on sculpturing in relation to her work for the L.D.S. Church. The Teen-Age Cloggers danced and they were very good.

Installation Banquet

Awards were presented and Wayne Mallet of the Temple Quarry Chapter was installed as President-elect for the National S.U.P. organization at the 6:30 dinner on Saturday. Verl Petersen of Brigham City, 1985 President of the National Society, reminded the 417 who enjoyed the roast beef dinner that the 1985 S.U.P. Encampment will be in Cedar City, Utah.

Toll Road Plaque, New Flag for Salt Lake Chapter

by Jack H. Ayre

"Sons of Utah Pioneers honor role of the 'Golden Road'"

— Deseret News

"SUP Chapter Unveil Flag and New Plaque"

— Salt Lake Tribune

The Salt Lake City Chapter of the Sons of the Utah Pioneers are marching forward. Three great events have received noteworthy attention just recently, though summer time activities often decline.

We who participated are proud of the new accomplishments we have beheld. We have had fun. We have been pleasingly acknowledged by our news media.

We enjoyed the fun Lagoon offered us. The shoot-out, the 15 minute film of the Mormons coming to Utah. The private show of the Lagoon band during our lunch. The free Las Vegas type show, lots of "pep". The pioneer village is something we can be very proud of.

As our second step forward on the summer time activities, we are now the proud owners of our own flag, after much preliminary work and considerations, drawing up plans and observing hundreds of other flags.

We now feel that we have a flag we can display with our own National flag, and our State flag.

Golden back-ground, our logo as though the pioneers are just coming into the valley, with the sun setting in the West panorama reflecting a golden hue against the side-wall of the canyon.

Our third great event: S.U.P.'s beautiful new building sits at a look out point viewing the exit spot that over 60,000 pioneers, gold seekers, and many others entered the valley. From the balcony of our building one can over-look this point where for 19 years the route now known as "Golden Road" was used. Parley P. Pratt's dream was to find or clear a road that would ease the strain of traveling through this rough mountainous territory.

The road was about 42 miles long. It was a toll road, because of the hard work that it took to clear the rough terrain. From today's standards this was really a bargain for instance a conveyance drawn by one animal was .50 cents; drawn by 2 animals, .75 cents; 10 cents for additional pack or saddle; 5 cents for each loose stock and only 1 cent for each sheep.

The toll house was just North a little bit from our building. The road ran East to Silver Creek Junction to Wanship, Coalville and the mouth of Echo Canyon. The project began in 1848 through 1850 (emigrant season). Year 1869 saw the coming of the railroad. Young Eagle Scout Paul Christenson's research drew the attention of our chapter, and was further developed by the additional research of our own Elder Eldred Smith, patriarch, and Chaplain of the National Society of the Sons of Utah Pioneers.

Our chapter carried the project forward to a new Plaque memorializing the "Parley's Golden Road". Elder Smith reviewed and then dedicated the plaque, after which it was presented to our National President Glen Greenwood.

Murray Chapter Enjoys Picnics and Parades

by C.O. Hadlock

On June 23rd, Murray Chapter met at Lagoon for a picnic dinner, a visit to Pioneer Village and stirring performances of the Lagoon Band and "Music USA". Many participated in other activities at the resort also.

Our Murray SUP chapter really made their presence known in the Murray 4th of July parade. We rode in the parade, on horses in a truck, sporting new black-and-orange vests and visors with Murray SUP emblazoned on them. Our chairman, Orin Black and his wife and committee made the vests and visors.

Immediately following the parade we joined for the dedication of our new Plaque and Monument to honor Murray smelting. The building of this monument has united us more firmly as a group.

On July 26th our Chapter members and wives met at Washington Park near Salt Lake City for a delicious barbecued beef dinner. After dinner we enjoyed the music of guest Clarence Pedersen on his accordion and harmonizing as a group.

Culminating our summer activities, we held our annual August "outdoor" outing on August 16th. Rained out for the third year in a row, we were unable to meet in the beautiful Ed Butterfield Gardens as planned, and we ate our chicken dinner back at the Heritage Center. Brother and Sister Arthur Sperry told some of their experiences as Mission Presidents in the Philippines Davao Mission from 1980 to 1983.

Box Elder Chapter SUP Places New Marker Honoring Lorenzo Snow

Lorenzo Snow was born April 3, 1814, in Mantua, Ohio, a son of Oliver and Rosetta Snow. He joined the Church in June of 1836 at the age of 22. He crossed the plains, captained his wagon company, and arrived in the Salt Lake Valley in 1848.

He was called to be an Apostle in 1849 at the age of 34. In the same year he was sent to Europe as a missionary, and he helped establish new missions in Italy, Switzerland and Malta, and directed the opening of a mission in India. He served five missions.

In 1853, he was called to preside over the colonization of Brigham City. In 1865, he organized the Brigham City Cooperative Association. He lived in Brigham City from 1873 to 1880, where he helped start a woolen mill, tannery, shoe factory, hat factory, cheese factory, tailor shop, furniture shop, wagon shop, blacksmith and tin shop.

He served as President of the Box Elder Stake, counselor to President Brigham Young, and became President of the Council of the Twelve Apostles in 1889. He also served as President of the Salt Lake Temple.

He was sustained as President of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints September 13, 1898, and served in that capacity for three years. He improved the financial status of the church and started the church on the road to economic prosperity.

AMERICA'S STEAK EXPERT

lightened by unity and affection in the family.

Juab Homestead

In 1871, Howard homesteaded on a quarter-section in Juab County, about forty miles to the south. He said he lived there "continuously until the fall of 1880," but Martha Jane's diary gave a more detailed picture of the family shuttling back and forth between their house in Provo and the farm in Mona.

Much of this time, she was teaching grade school in Provo, writing articles for the Woman's Exponent, distilling herbs for linaments, acting in a fellow resident's interests under power of attorney, teaching Sunday School, serving as secretary of the Provo Relief Society, and serving as a member of the Board of Trustees of Brigham Young Academy in Provo.

Brigham Young had wanted a woman to serve on the board so "that the interests of the young women in the school might be guarded and carefully nourished." He approved Martha Jane's appointment; and on April 10, 1876, she wrote back a letter of warm acceptance, tagging on a hefty list of proposals for new courses.

Brigham Young was not the only Utah notable she was corresponding with. She corresponded with Prof. Joseph L. Barfoot, director of the Deseret Museum, about her scientific interests; with George Q. Cannon about recent publications of his company; with her brother-in-law, William H. Hooper, a wealthy Salt Lake businessman, about her business interests. Her journal for this period shows her as a woman who was busy and alert, her days spiced by an ironic sense of perception, a lack of self-pity, and an intelligent analysis of the practicality of what went on around her. For her birthday in 1875, she "washed in forenoon - plowed in afternoon".

Children Follow Example

She had not neglected the education of her children, and several of them were inclined toward academic pursuits. Three of her daughters married Utah educators: Harriet married Wilson Ward Dusenberry; and Martha and Ephrina were married to Theodore Beldon Lewis. Her son, Howard, taught at the University of Utah.

When Martha Jane's daughter, Harriet, died in childbirth in June 1872, she wrote again to Brigham Young, recommending there be better training for midwives. It was about this time that Brigham Young encouraged Romania Bunnell Pratt to go East to study medicine. Soon, Ellis Shipp and others followed her.

In the fall of 1880, Martha Jane fell seriously ill. Howard's record notes that she had been afflicted several years with a cough, which had now become so bad, that I thought it best to come to Provo [from Mona], where I could take better care of her, than was possible on the farm in Juab Co.; but, with all that care and medicine could do, she left us—she lingered till December 14th, 1881, when her spirit took its flight.

The day before her death, characteristically, she took care of her last piece of business, signing a paper for Brigham Young Academy, the organization that had absorbed so much of her energy during the last six years of her life.

Thanks to Encampment Committees; Best Wishes to New Officers

I wish to take this opportunity to thank all who have contributed to the success of our 1984 Encampment held at Heber City, Utah. Committee Chairman Wallace W. Bates, the entire encampment committee and their wives are to be congratulated for the professional manner in which they put the events together. East Mill Creek and Mountain Valley Chapters worked together as a team resulting in an outstanding Encampment. Each of the tours was well-planned and conducted. The good meals were served in an orderly manner, and the evening programs were appropriate and enjoyed by all.

I wish to personally thank the City of Heber, Mayor Jan Furner, and SUP President Melvin Carlile and his officers and members of the Mountain Valley Chapter for their dedication in accomplishing the task we asked them to assume.

East Mill Creek Chapter, under President Charles B. Smurthwaite,

his officers and members, spent countless hours before and during the Encampment, seeing to it that each of us had a most enjoyable time. If I began to name different members, I could forget someone, so therefore, let me say "thank you" to all who participated.

The morning program for the ladies was exceptionally good and was enjoyed by all. Elda Bates and her committee worked hard to make it very entertaining and successful.

The Awards Committee, under the direction of K. Grant Hale, Samuel H. Gordon and E. Morton Hill did an outstanding job.

Our election of officers was handled by the Past Presidents' Committee and moved along well.

I wish to congratulate each of our newly-elected officers. It is my wish that each of them will have much success in their endeavors in behalf of the S.U.P.

SUP T-Shirt Runs in 1984 Boston Marathon

Warren M. Woolsey, of Cedar City Chapter, carried SUP colors this year in the Boston Marathon, wearing his souvenir T-shirt from the 1979 Nauvoo-Salt Lake City relay.

Shouts of "Mormon" and "Son of Utah Pioneer" greeted Woolsey, a dentist, along the 26.2-mile route. He wore the shirt, a treasured souvenir, because it was the SUP relay that got him running again.

In 1979, he ran 10 miles from Farson to Simpson's Hollow in Wyoming, and joined 200 other runners for the final leg of the route up Big Mountain and down Emigration Canyon to the "This is the Place" Monument.
